Dear FCC,

Please do not grant permission for NextNav to use the lower portion of the iSM band. The general public uses this band for multiple open source projects and applications. One such important one is Meshtastic which will be impacted by this change. Meshtastic is a great alternative means of communicating in emergency situations as a backup means of communication. There are other bands that NextNav could use or possibly operate on digital technology. Thank you for your consideration in this matter.

Sincerely,

Brian Crowder
